The Youth Development Institute (YDI) was created to help youth and young adult serving organizations/agencies enhance their programs by incorporating evidence-based youth development practices. YDI provides teams of young people and adults with a powerful and interactive learning and training experience as a way to launch organizational change. The training sets the stage for how to engage with youth and young adults, utilizing positive youth development approaches.

Learning Objectives:

- To create quality environments for young people;
- To ensure that young people receive the essential experiences now that will contribute to their development into successful and healthy adults;
- To enhance current practices with youth development principles; and
- To create a plan of action.

Presenters:

Christina Nicholson, WPL Director, Certified YDI Trainer
Lindsay Alderette, YES Program Manager, Certified YDI Trainer
